"Fifth Column" Technique Equivalent To Attack

LONDON, JULY 11 (BWS)—THE MORNING PRESS DEVOTES LEADING ARTICLES TO THE PRIME MINIS-TER'S STATEMENT ON DANZIG YESTERDAY.

"The Times" says, "There can be no margin for misunderstanding where Britain stands in regard to Danzig after the statement made by the Prime Minister in the House of Commons yesterday. It is not Mr. Chamberlain's custom to employ threatening or hyperbolic language or, indeed, to use a single superfluous word. With him every word counts and every word of yesterday's statement stands in indissoluble. relation to action past, present or to come. Danzig, he fully recognizes, is a German city. "The position makes it impossible to judge the question of its status in isolation as if it were of no importance to any other country whether Germany did or did not, for instance, fortify it after taking possession.

"Moreover, a vote taken in a city which has been ruled by Nazis for any length of time does not necessarily represent the true opinion of its citizens—it took four years after the accession to power of the Fuehrer in Berlin for intimidation and all other measures of militant Nazism to gain a bare two-thirds majority in the Senate which was legally necessary to modify the constitution of the Free City. No settlement was reported last night in the Chinese compositors and printers strike which began on Monday night, but it was learned that representatives from both sides were endeavouring to reach a satisfactory agreement.

HARVEY, MASTER TACTICIAN

GREAT DISPLAY GENERALSHIP

Deserved Winner Over McAvoy

LONDON, July 11 (Reuter)-At the White City yesterday 100,000 spectators saw Len Harvey win the World, Empire and British Cruiser weight titles by out-pointing Jock McAvoy over fifteen rounds.

Harvey was a "deserved" winner after being on the verge of knock-out in the fourteenth round. He gave a great display of generalship and masterly tactics.

MASTER TACTICIAN Coming back from the verge of being knocked out in the fourteenth round, Harvey crowned his 20 years' boxing career by becoming the holder of five titles simultaneously.

Harvey showed his usually good generalship and proved to be a master tactician. He allowed the rugged McAvoy to force the pace for two-thirds of the fight and then applied pressure when McAvoy was tiring after the tenth round.

Harvey landed rights and lefts to the head and body almost as he pleased and McAvoy was soon distressed. McAvoy punched desperately in the fourteenth and forced Harvey to hold grimly on to a fight which finished with both men standing toe to toe and hitting recklessly.

FORCING TACTICS

Harvey won "seven rounds, McAvov six and two were even. McAvoy continued his forcing tactics in the sixth, seventh and eighth rounds, punching from all angles. He rocked Harvey in the seventh with left hooks" followed. by rights.

The fight developed into a needle in the closing rounds when Harvey, with well-timed punching, monopolized the exchanges.

There were scenes of the wildest enthusiasm as Harvey donned the Lonsdale Beit and kissed his wife.

DOYLE KNOCKED OUT Eddie Phillips knocked out Jack Doyle in 2 min. 24 sec, in the first of a ten-round bout after Phillips had been twice downed for counts

Phillips then, with a left to the body and a right book to the chin finished the fight which was Doyle's first since he fought Phillips last September when he was catapulted through the ropes.

CHINESE EDUCATIONAL PLANS: PRESENT PROBLEMS: MINISTER INTERVIEWED

CHUNGKING, July 11 (T/Ocean)-Mr. Chen Li-12, Chinese minister of Education, in the course of an injerview with Trans-Ocean's Chief correspondent, stated that over 50 per cent of the Chinese universities and other seats of Jearning in China had been destroyed during the present hostilities.

Many of these had, however, been re-established in the interior suffered in regard to scientific as it would benefit Germany too. equipment.

cases was that of the Sino-German Tungchi University, near Shanghai. where a great part of the scientific and other instruments had and what provisions should be been lost

Lack Of Funds

Mr. Chen Li-fu stated that formerly Chinese institutes of learning had been mostly concentrated at a few points close to each other, but now an effort was being made to distribute them over the country. This was, however, proving difficult owing to the lack of adequate housing and the inability to construct new buildings due to lack of funds.

it had been planned, however, to leave a certain number of universities and high schools in the laterior of China even after the war in order to give the inhabitants of the interior provinces equal chances.

Reconstruction Work

In the meantime, the Ministry of Education was encouraging students to continue their studies. after the "conclusion "of the hostilities there would be a great demand for engineers and scientists for reconstruction work.

The Minister also hoped that foreign scientists would come to China after the war and he expressed the special hope that Germany would send out scientists to teach Chinese students

He also expressed a wish that German teachers should come out to China now in order to effect that continuity of Sino-German cultural relations which had not been broken off.

'LADIES DAY" AT ROTARY CLUB

MR. BERNARD BROWN'S WITTY & INTERESTING LUNCHEON ADDRESS

Accountant's Adventures In "The Glorious East"

Described by the Chairman as one of the best talks given at a Rotary luncheon, the address by Mr. C. Bernard Brown to a "Ladies' Day" gathering of the Hongkong Rotary Club in the Roof Garden of the Hongkong Hotel yesterday was received with applause of a volume seldom equalled at such meetings.

Entitled "Welcome,"to the Glorious East," Mr. Brown's talk was a continuation of a previous speech to the Club. In the latter he had dealt with his experiences as a clerk in the City of London 27 years ago; yesterday he told of some of his "adventures" following his arrival in the Colony in 1912 to take up a post with a firm of chartered accountants.

I propose to carry on from where I left off, and to give you an impression of the Hougkong of the day as seen through my eyes when they were a quarter of a century younger.

FALSE COLOURS

•I must say that I arrived in Hongkong under false colours, and safes soon disappeared, but it though I was an innocent party was only comparatively recently thereto. Before leaving England I | that I sold my last box of cigars. endeavoured to ascertain what [(Laughter). were the essentials to social success in Hongkong and was "told that it up we were General Managers of was important to know how to play | the Steam Laundry Co., and we got billiards, bridge, and to be able to a certain amount of kick out or dance. The subject presents so few attractions that I will deal with it as briefly as possible. Upon my arrival here my poor attainments were tried out one by one. I was weighed in the balance and found wanting, my culminating offence being that I was engaged to be married. I did say something about tennis being my game. and that served until my taipan's wife knocked my head off in a singles.

ACCOUNTANTS AND S.A.

Punctuated with amusing | days, and here I'm afraid I'm going to bore the ladies. So I will digress for a moment and explain to them that though an accountant's work is very important, he-seldom cuts a romantic figure. You never hear of the accountant as the hero of a motion-picture play or of modern novel. Indeed, the wellknown dramatic critic James Agate said of a certain charming personality that he could not ressibly be an accountant, as they were en-

SOCIAL "LIFE.

Let us now turn a moment to the social life of the Colony. Hongkong has been charged with being stand-oldsh and exclusive. Whether or not that is true to-day, it certainly applied, in my opinion, to the Hongkong of 25 years ago. Calling was "de rigeur" for bachelors, almost every dinner party was a white tie and tails affair, and if a female was seen in the stalls at the City Hall the was liable to be considered as being mo better than she ought to be.

CHINA'S LEADERS CONFIDENT

THE CHINESE people must be greatly encouraged by the optimistic tone which pervaded the messages issued by Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and other leaders on the occasion of the second anniversary of the undeclared Sino-Japanese war. Without a sinige exception, those who issued the messages expressed the utmost confidence in China's ultimate victory and her determination to continue the war of resistance against Japan's invasion irrespective of the amount of sacrifices and privations they suffer or the length of time that the war may take.

HONGKONG WOULD BE ABANDONED! OKYO PAPER PROSPECTIVE OUTCOME ANGLO - JAPANESE WAR

Extraordinary Conclusions: How Singapore Would Be "Conquered"

TOKYO, July 11 (T/Ocean)—The possibility of an Anglo-Japanese war and its prospective outcome is discussed by the paper "Yominuri Shimbun" on Monday.

If such a war should break out, the paper says, the Far East-would become the scene of some gigantic battles.

The paper believes that the Japanese General Staff, in case of such a war, have planned an attack on Singapore, where the British Navy is likely to retreat, since Britain would not be able to hold Hongkong against a Japanese attack and, would, therefore, abandon it.

SO EASY! The Japanese, attacking with their air force and submarines, would have no great difficulty in conquering the Malay Peninsula and the loss of Singapore in such a war would mean the downfall,

In support of this opinion, the paper enumerates Britain's naval forces. They consist of 14 battleships, 14 cruisers of

"A" Class. 49 cruisers of "B" Class, including the cruisers Belfast and Edinburgh, and seven aircraft carriers, two of which belong to an antiquated

The European tension has prevented Britain · from sending battleships and a large number cruisers to the Far East.

JAPAN'S DEFENCE?

In the event of the United States and France assisting Britain in such a war, the paper believes that the Japanese General Staff have prepared a reliable defence.

The paper appears to the Japanese people to have confidence in the Japanese military command and is also sure that a maval war would. in any case, end in Japan's. Invour.

Man-power is the first consideration of any army. Without a sufficiency of soldiers no nation can endure the agony of a lengthy war.

BY T. PAUL GREGORY

More than this, however, the decisive factor in any campaign is the human element. No matter how advanced the degree of an army's mechanization, the brunt of battle must be borne by the rank and file. It is these largely unsung heroes in the front line trenches who make victory possible, and upon whose morale depends the successful culmination of any struggle.

China, even more than the mighty domain of the Soviet, is blessed with reserves of manpower, which are practically inexhaustible, and it is to these millions of potential soldiers that she, regardless of her seeming defeats on many fronts, owes the fact that she still holds the whip-keit" (frightfulness) under the guise of "establishing a new order in East Asia" has been the leaven is revolutionizing the opinions and pre-conceived notions of the great masses of the people. To be a soldier is no longer regarded as the dead end of all vocations, but is being eagerly embraced by an ever-increasing number as the depredations of Japan increase.

UNPRECEDENTED:

Atrocities committed upon helpless non-combatants in the occupied areas, have fanned hatred of the Nipponese invaders to a white heat, and among the first effects of this campaign of planned murder, loot and rapine have been the startling change in China's ancient blas against soldiering. Hundreds of thousands of young men have now donned the uniform, and of these at least one-half are volumteers. This is unprecedented in the annals of China's long history

Of these youthful volunteers, thousands are serving in the armies of the Central Government, while other thousands are enrolled in the ranks of flerce guerilla warriors who make the hearts of the Japanese and their puppet supporters quake with terror.

But even this ever-growing number of those voluntarily enlisting for war-time service is insufficient, and so the Chinese Government has adopted the expedient of conscription-not universal form known in the West -but a modified one which for continues, and then the three fairness is admirable, and one, too, recruits join those of neighbouring which is based on the fundamen- villages, and together they march tally democratic scheme of Chi- away to the strains of the Yinese society.

The basis of this recruiting unit is, of course, the village. Villages of perhaps one hundred families (say five hundred inhabitants) are required to furnish a monthly quota of three recruits for the army, but those who are drafted for service are selected in a most impartial way.

PATRIOTIC SPIRIT:

The selection ceremony is carried out in an atmosphere of intense emotion, and the patriotic spirit of the audience is aroused to a high. pitch by the simple but direct appeal of the recruiting officer who explains to the crowd the meaning of the occasion and the necessity of each doing his or her utmost for their country in the heroic struggle for existence.

What must be the sentiments that surge through the breasts. of these youthful listeners as they hear the recital of their country's wrongs, and the need for their personal service to save the nation?

Their duty to the land where the black-haired race. have made their home for more than forty centuries is impressed upon them, and when the dramatic moment comes for the selection of recruits, each listener is keyed up with expectancy.

Eagerly they watch the officer count out a sequence of small bamboo tallies, equal to the number of eligible lads waiting to be chosen. Deliberately and unhurriedly, he places them in a box, and adds to their number three other slips painted white.

These are shuffled thoroughly like dominoes or the tiles in a game of mah-jongg, and when they are deemed sufficiently mixed, each youth is invited to draw one slip without looking. Those who pick out the white tallies are automatically selected, and become the recruiting quota for the village during the month.

NEW PSYCHOLOGY:

The three nominees are enthusiastically applauded by the throng, and looked upon with envy by their fellows who clamour that they, too, may be chosen. Under the new psychology of the people to be a soldier for the Motherland is regarded as a privilege, and it is with pride that the village teasts its departing sons who leave to serve at the front.

"We have guaranteed to give our assistance to Poland in case there is a clear threat to her independence, which she considers it vital to resist with all her national forces, and we are firmly resolved to carry out this undertaking," said Mr. Neville Chamberlain, in the House of Commons yesterday, in the course of his eagerly awaited statement on the situa-" tion in Danzig.

But if 30,000 small industrial units could be set up in China, then the country would be in a position to administer to her own wants and be independent of outside supplies.

Mr. Alley said he had just returned from the southeast headquarters of the C.I.C. in South Klangsi. There were at the present time five headquarters in all in the country.

BERLIN. July 11 (T/Ocean) -Mr. Tashiro, the Japanese Consul-General in Tientsin in an interview granted to a semiofficial German news agency, declared that Japan, if necessary, would continue the blockade of the British Concession in Tientsin for one or two years.

Japanese Driven Back Imperial Airways: In Two Battles

Chinese reports claim that the latest Japanese attempt to wipe out guerillas on the "Pootung peninsula is another failure asserting that the situation there has relaxed to the relief of many Pootung refugees living in the foreign settlements here.

Japanese military authorities are stated to have recently gathered together about 2,000 men in Pootung and the southern section of the Whangpoo in order to make another attempt to defeat the trouble-making irregulars.

Before the Japanese could do anything however, leaders of the various bands of guerillas met and decided to carry out a defence scheme jointly to forming a 60kilometre defence line in both Fenghsien and Nanwei (all in Pootung).

In addition to these precautionary measures "puppet" soldiers and police were persuaded to stage mutinies, it is stated.

Bellenger (Lab) asked in the House of Commons yesterday for the sterling value of the proposals submitted by British traders in the past six months in connexion with exports to China, the proportions approved and the total value of the guarantees given by the Export Credits Guarantee Department in the period?

Mr. R. S. Hudson, Secretary for Overseas Trade replied that the total contracts, policies and guaup to June 31 was £30,365,207. It was not the practice to state the amounts in respect of a particular country.

Lack Of Initiative? Mr. Bellenger asked, in a sup-

Mr. Hudson declined to further details as it was the practice of the department to regard as confidential all information relating to individual transac-

The market opened v
compared with Saturday's	closing	quotatio	ps.		1

Quiet conditions prevailed throughout the day. Although demand from consuming centres for "actuals" was fair, dealers and speculators kept aloof, awaiting further developments on the Exchanges in London and New York, which, following the usual summer practice, remained closed on Saturday last. Consequently only a negligible volume of business was recorded.

According to cable-reports received from New York the consensus of opinion amongst Rubber brokers as to the probable future trend of the market is optimistic. These circles base their belief on the fact that business-recovery is continually making steady progress in U.S.A., thus assuring further satisfactory" Rubber-absorption, always providing however, that the market will not be subject to unforeseen outside influences, such as political crises, labour troubles etc.

Rubber stocks held in the United Kingdom showed a decrease of 1,717 tons for the week ending July 8, 1939.

NEW YORK COTTON Following up the steadiness at the opening, the market became -active and strong, reflecting the good demand caused by new trade buying and "bear" covering. Some foreign buying was also in evidence. There was a scarcity of contracts, which aided the advance in prices. The market closed with prices very near the day's best levels.

NEW YORK RUBBER

The market was again a narrrow affair, and a slightly lower adjustment of prices was noted. However, a steady to firm undertone was evinced towards the close.

Shanghai Hero Once. More Fights Enemy

General Tssi Ting-kai, leader of the 19th Route Army that for over a month held back a better equipped Japanese invading army in the Shanghai war of January 1932, is now back in the ranks of China's fighting commanders.

For the past few months, he has been directing operations west of Canton, according to a recent dispatch from the South China front. In April his men successfully blocked the Japanese advance toward Kwangsi along the West River.

WOUNDED BY BOMBS Last October, when he was visiting his native village at Loting in western Kwangtung he received an emergency message from Canton. The Japanese had landed an army of 30,000 at Blas Bay and were marching toward the southern Chinese metropolis. He set out at once, but before he got to Canton, the city had fallen.
